[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Financial Services, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 5311) to improve the quality of proxy advisory firms for the protection of investors and the U.S. economy, and in the public interest, by fostering accountability, transparency, responsiveness, and competition in the proxy advisory firm industry, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon with an amendment and recommends that the bill as amended do pass.

The amendment is as follows:

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Corporate Governance Reform and Transparency Act of 2016”.

“(81) PROXY ADVISORY FIRM.—The term ‘proxy advisory firm’ means any person registered under section 15H who is engaged in the business of providing proxy voting research, analysis, or recommendations to clients, which conduct constitutes a solicitation within the meaning of section 14 and the Commission’s rules and regulations thereunder, except to the extent that the person is exempted by such rules and regulations from requirements otherwise applicable to persons engaged in a solicitation.

“(82) PERSON ASSOCIATED WITH A PROXY ADVISORY FIRM.—The term ‘person associated with’ a proxy advisory firm means any partner, officer, or director of a proxy advisory firm (or any person occupying a similar status or performing similar functions), any person directly or indirectly controlling, controlled by, or under common control with a proxy advisory firm, or any employee of a proxy advisory firm, except that persons associated with a proxy advisory firm whose functions are clerical or ministerial shall not be included in the meaning of such term. “(j) STATEMENTS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION.—Each registered proxy advisory firm shall, on a confidential basis, file with the Commission, at intervals determined by the Commission, such financial statements, certified (if required by the rules or regulations of the Commission) by an independent public auditor, and information concerning its financial condition, as the Commission, by rule, may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors.

“(k) ANNUAL REPORT.—Each registered proxy advisory firm shall, at the beginning of each fiscal year of such firm, report to the Commission on the number of shareholder proposals its staff reviewed in the prior fiscal year, the number of recommendations made in the prior fiscal year, the number of staff who reviewed and made recommendations on such proposals in the prior fiscal year, and the number of recommendations made in the prior fiscal year where the proponent of such recommendation was a client of or received services from the proxy advisory firm.

“(l) TRANSPARENT POLICIES.—Each registered proxy advisory firm shall file with the Commission and make publicly available its methodology for the formulation of proxy voting policies and voting recommendations.

“(m) RULES OF CONSTRUCTION.—

“(1) NO WAIVER OF RIGHTS, PRIVILEGES, OR DEFENSES.—Registration under and compliance with this section does not constitute a waiver of, or otherwise diminish, any right, privilege, or defense that a registered proxy advisory firm may otherwise have under any provision of State or Federal law, including any rule, regulation, or order thereunder.

“(2) NO PRIVATE RIGHT OF ACTION.—Nothing in this section may be construed as creating any private right of action, and no report filed by a registered proxy advisory firm in accordance with this section or section 17 shall create a private right of action under section 18 or any other provision of law.

“(n) REGULATIONS.—

“(1) NEW PROVISIONS.—Such rules and regulations as are required by this section or are otherwise necessary to carry out this section, including the application form required under subsection (a)—

“(A) shall be issued by the Commission, not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this section; and

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

Introduced by Representatives Sean Duffy and John Carney on May 24, 2016, H.R. 5311, the “Corporate Governance Reform and Transparency Act of 2016,” establishes a regulatory regime for proxy advisory firms with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Specifically, H.R. 5311 requires that proxy advisory firms register with the SEC, disclose and address potential conflicts of interest, maintain and publish a code of ethics, and make publicly available the methodologies used to formulate proxy recommendations and analyses.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

A proxy advisory firm researches and provides analysis on shareholder proposals. Every year, public companies hold annual meetings for shareholders to vote on a number of company related issues, including the company’s directors. The SEC requires public companies to provide their shareholders with a proxy statement before each shareholder meeting. A proxy statement includes all important facts about the matters to be voted on, including, for example, information on board of director candidates, director compensation, executive compensation, related party transactions, and securities ownership by certain beneficial owners and management. The information contained in the statement must be filed with the SEC before soliciting a shareholder vote on the election of directors and the approval of other corporate actions. Solicitations, whether by management or shareholders, must disclose all important facts about the issues on which shareholders are asked to vote.

H.R. 5311 will foster greater accountability, transparency, responsiveness and competition in the proxy advisory firm industry, thereby improving corporate governance and protecting investors. Just two proxy advisory firms control over 90% percent of the market and their writings, analyses, reports, and voting recommendations affect fundamental corporate transactions like mergers or acquisitions, the approval of corporate directors, and shareholder proposals. Requiring proxy advisory firms to register with the SEC will not change the fact that the market has created a duopoly. However, it will ensure that these firms are subject to SEC oversight and supervision. H.R. 5311 does not capture and would not subject any entity, which as a fiduciary exercises discretionary authority only to vote shares owned by its clients to register with the SEC as a proxy advisory firm.

Federal regulation of proxy solicitations

In general, state corporate law governs shareholder voting rights, including the types of corporate actions that require shareholder approval. However, Section 14 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 authorizes the SEC to promulgate rules governing the solicitation of proxies for most public companies. SEC Regulation 14A governs proxy solicitations, and sets forth the categories of information that must be disclosed in proxy solicitations. Regulation 14A also provides for shareholder access to certain information in connection with proxy solicitations, sets forth when a company must include a shareholder's proposal in its proxy statement, and prohibits the making of materially false and misleading statements or omissions in connection with a proxy solicitation.

Proxy advisory firms

Institutional investors, including investment advisers to mutual funds and pension funds, typically hold shares in a large number of public companies. Each year, the investment advisers to these funds vote billions of shares on behalf of their clients on thousands of proxy ballot items. In 2003, the SEC adopted a rule under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 requiring an investment adviser that exercises voting authority over its clients' proxies to adopt policies and procedures designed to ensure that it votes those proxies in the best interests of its clients. The SEC's release adopting the rule clarified that "an adviser could demonstrate that the vote was not a product of a conflict of interest if it voted client securities in accordance with a pre-determined policy, based upon the recommendations of an independent third party." As a result, institutional investors increased their reliance on proxy advisory firms to help them decide how to vote their shares. In 2004, the SEC staff issued (without a Commission vote) two "no action" letters "effectively blessing the practice of investment advisers simply voting the recommendations provided by a proxy adviser."

Largely as a result of the SEC's regulations, proxy advisory firms now wield outsized influence in the U.S. proxy system. Studies have found that the two largest proxy advisory firms—Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS) and Glass Lewis & Co. collectively make up over 90% of the proxy advisory industry, and can control a significant percentage of shareholder votes in corporate elections, sometimes as high as 40 percent.

Potential conflicts of interest

Regulators, market participants, and academic observers have highlighted potential conflicts of interest inherent in the business models and activities of proxy advisory firms. For example, as noted above, proxy advisory firms may feel pressured by their largest clients' many of whom are activist investors—to issue voting recommendations that reflect those clients' specific agendas. In addition, proxy advisory firms often provide voting recommendations to investment advisers on matters for which they also provide consulting services to public companies. According to a Mercatus Center study, "these consulting services are designed precisely to facilitate managers' obtaining favorable recommendations." Some proxy advisory firms also rate or score public companies on their governance structure, policies, and practices, which provides another avenue for proxy advisory firms to influence corporate governance practices.

2014 SEC staff bulletin on proxy voting

Given the major role proxy advisor firms now play in the U.S. proxy system, including their ability to influence corporate governance standards by supplying voting recommendations and other services, as well as the conflicts of interest described above, proxy advisory firms have become the subject of greater scrutiny. Regulators, market participants, and academics have argued that rather than using shareholder votes to maximize shareholder value, proxy advisory firms have instead aligned themselves with activist shareholders or unions to push social, political, and environmental goals unrelated and in many cases antithetical to increasing shareholder returns. Their critics contend that because proxy advisory firms generally have no financial interest in a public company's performance and owe no duty to its shareholders, they are prone to making decisions that neither promote good corporate governance nor increase shareholder value.

In response to these concerns, on June 30, 2014, the SEC's Division of Corporate Finance and its Division of Investment Management jointly issued a staff legal bulletin on "Proxy Voting: Proxy Voting Responsibilities of Investment Advisers and Availability of Exemptions from the Proxy Rules for Proxy Advisory Firms" (the Bulletin). The Bulletin clarifies that an investment adviser and its clients "have flexibility in determining the scope of the investment adviser's obligation to exercise proxy voting authority," and that SEC rules do not require investment advisers to vote every proxy. The Bulletin also states that, in considering whether to obtain the assistance of a proxy advisory firm, an investment adviser should ascertain the proxy advisory firm's "capacity and competency to adequately analyze proxy issues," and "identify and address any conflicts of interest." The Bulletin adds that, in order to comply with SEC rules, investment advisers should adopt policies and procedures “reasonably designed to provide sufficient ongoing oversight of . . . third party [proxy advisers]” in order to ensure that proxies are voted in the best interest of the investment adviser’s clients. Finally, the Bulletin describes the exemptions available to proxy advisory firms from the filing and disclosure requirements of the SEC’s proxy rules, and clarifies that, in order to rely on these exemptions, proxy advisers must make certain disclosures regarding significant relationships and material interests, including material conflicts that may arise from consulting services or client relationships.

The Bulletin was a positive step forward towards improving the system of developing and dispensing proxy advice in the United States. However, nearly two years after the guidance was issued, many of the same issues in terms of conflict of interest and the adoption of “one size fits all” proxy recommendations still remain. Moreover, ISS and Glass-Lewis continue to maintain their dominance in this space without sufficient SEC oversight. The bipartisan H.R. 5311 will address many of the potential conflicts of interest that were not remedied by the Bulletin and ensure that proxy advisory firms engaged in these important services are subject to SEC registration and regulation.

In his testimony during the Capital Markets and Government Sponsored Enterprises Subcommittee hearing on May 17, 2016, former SEC Commissioner Daniel Gallagher praised the bill for helping to address concerns with the proxy advisory system, noting that it would provide:

A comprehensive regulatory regime to address many of the fundamental concerns that still remain regarding the activities of proxy advisers. . . . The registration regime in the [bill] would significantly improve transparency surrounding the structure and operation of proxy advisers beyond the limited disclosure required under existing rules and guidance.

Conclusion

The current proxy advisory firm regulatory regime is not sufficient as two proxy advisory firms, Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS) and Glass Lewis & Co., account for 97 percent of the market share of the proxy advisory business and wield enormous influence. A new and specifically tailored regulatory regime for the business of proxy advisory firms providing recommendations on proxy votes is necessary to ensure that they are subject to SEC oversight. The Business Roundtable, in a written statement submitted to the Subcommittee on Capital Markets for the May 17, 2016 hearing, noted that H.R. 5311 “would improve the efficiency of U.S. capital markets and improve the quality of information available to shareholders and investors.”

Enclosure.

H.R. 5311—Corporate Governance Reform and Transparency Act of 2016

H.R. 5311 would require proxy advisory firms to register with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and would subject them to certain rules and reporting requirements. H.R. 5311 would define the term proxy advisory firm and direct the SEC to require firms that fall within this definition to register with the agency in order to operate. A proxy advisory firm is one that provides voting recommendations to investment advisors who have the authority to proxy vote for their clients. It also would require registered proxy advisory firms to disclose certain information to the SEC, such as their financial and managerial resources and any potential or actual conflicts of interest in providing proxy advisory services. Lastly, H.R. 5311 would direct the SEC to annually report on its regulation of these firms.

On the basis of information provided by the SEC, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 5311 would cost $5 million over the 2017–2021 period to hire about 4 additional staff to create and maintain the registry and to prepare annual reports. However, the SEC is authorized to collect fees sufficient to offset its annual appropriation; therefore, CBO estimates that the net effect on discretionary spending would be negligible, assuming appropriation actions consistent with that authority. Enacting H.R. 5311 would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply.

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 5311 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year period beginning in 2027.

H.R. 5311 contains no intergovernmental mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

H.R. 5311 contains private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA. CBO estimates that the aggregate cost of those mandates would fall below the annual threshold for private-sector mandates established in UMRA ($154 million in 2016, adjusted annually for inflation). The bill would impose new registration, disclosure, and personnel requirements on proxy advisory firms.

The cost of the mandates would be the incremental costs incurred by firms to comply with the bill's requirements. Based on an analysis of information from the SEC, industry sources, and the academic literature about current business practices, CBO estimates the incremental cost to comply with the mandates would be small.

In addition, CBO expects that the SEC would increase fees to offset the cost of implementing the bill. An increase in SEC fees would increase the cost of an existing mandate on private entities required to pay those fees. Based on information from the SEC, CBO estimates that the incremental cost of the mandate, if imposed, would total no more than $5 million over the 2017–2021 period.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Stephen Rabent (for federal costs) and Logan Smith (for private-sector mandates). The estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1: Short title

This section cites H.R. 5311 as the “Corporate Governance Reform and Transparency Act of 2016.”

Section 2: Definitions

This section amends Section 3(a) of the Securities Act of 1933 by defining the term “proxy advisory firm” to mean any person registered under section 15H who is engaged in the business of providing proxy voting research, analysis, or recommendations to clients, which constitutes a solicitation; by defining “person associated with” to mean any partner, officer, employee, director or controller or under control of a proxy advisory firm.

Section 3: Registration of proxy advisory firms

This section amends The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 by inserting Section 15H. This new section states that a proxy advisory Specifically, when applying for registration the proxy advisory firm must include the following information: a certification that the firm has the financial and managerial resources to provide proxy advice; the procedures and methodologies that the firm uses in developing proxy voting recommendations; the organizational structure of the firm; whether or not the firm has a code of ethics; any potential or actual conflict of interest; policies and procedures to manage conflicts of interest; and any other information that the Commission deems necessary. This section also sets forth that the Commission shall issue final rules to prohibit any act that they believe is unfair, coercive, or abusive relating to the offering of proxy advisory services as well as make publicly available all information that was provided to them by the proxy advisory firms.

Section 4: Commission annual report

This section requires that the Commission publicly release an annual report that describes the methodologies that they used for formulating proxy recommendations and analyses.

(4) The Commission or the appropriate regulatory agency may specify that documents required to be filed pursuant to this subsection with the Commission or such agency, respectively, may be retained by the originating clearing agency, transfer agent, or municipal securities dealer, or filed with another appropriate regulatory agency. The Commission or the appropriate regulatory agency (as the case may be) making such a specification shall continue to have access to the document on request.

(d)(1) The Commission, by rule or order, as it deems necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors, to foster cooperation and coordination among self-regulatory organizations, or to remove impediments to and foster the development of a national market system and national system for the clearance and settlement of securities transactions, may—

(A) with respect to any person who is a member of or participant in more than one self-regulatory organization, relieve any such self-regulatory organization of any responsibility under this title (i) to receive regulatory reports from such person, (ii) to examine such person for compliance, or to enforce compliance by such person, with specified provisions of this title, the rules and regulations thereunder, and its own rules, or (iii) to carry out other specified regulatory functions with respect to such person, and

(B) allocate among self-regulatory organizations the authority to adopt rules with respect to matters as to which, in the absence of such allocation, such self-regulatory organizations share authority under this title.

In making any such rule or entering any such order, the Commission shall take into consideration the regulatory capabilities and procedures of the self-regulatory organizations, availability of staff, convenience of location, unnecessary regulatory duplication, and such other factors as the Commission may consider germane to the protection of investors, cooperation and coordination among self-regulatory organizations, and the development of a national market system and a national system for the clearance and settlement of securities transactions. The Commission, by rule or order, as it deems necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors, may require any self-regulatory organization relieved of any responsibility pursuant to this paragraph, and any person with respect to whom such responsibility relates, to take such steps as are specified in any such rule or order to notify customers of, and persons doing business with, such person of the limited nature of such self-regulatory organization's responsibility for such person's acts, practices, and course of business.

(2) A self-regulatory organization shall furnish copies of any report of examination of any person who is a member of or a participant in such self-regulatory organization to any other self-regulatory organization of which such person is a member or in which such person is a participant upon the request of such person, such other self-regulatory organization, or the Commission.

(e)(1)(A) Every registered broker or dealer shall annually file with the Commission a balance sheet and income statement certified by a independent public accounting firm, or by a registered public accounting firm if the firm is required to be registered under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002,, prepared on a calendar or fiscal

(C) The Commission, by rule or order, may conditionally or unconditionally exempt any registered broker or dealer, or class of such brokers or dealers, from any provision of this paragraph if the Commission determines that such exemption is consistent with the public interest and the protection of investors.

(2) The Commission, by rule, as it deems necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors, may prescribe the form and content of financial statements filed pursuant to this title and the accounting principles and accounting standards used in their preparation.

(f)(1) Every national securities exchange, member thereof, registered securities association, broker, dealer, municipal securities dealer, government securities broker, government securities dealer, registered transfer agent, registered clearing agency, participant therein, member of the Federal Reserve System, and bank whose deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation shall—

(B) make such inquiry with respect to information reported pursuant to this subsection as the Commission, by rule, prescribes as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors, to determine whether securities in their custody or control, for which they are responsible, or in which they are effecting, clearing, or settling a transaction have been reported as missing, lost, counterfeit, stolen, cancelled, or reported in such other manner as the Commission, by rule, may prescribe.

(2) Every member of a national securities exchange, broker, dealer, registered transfer agent, registered clearing agency, registered securities information processor, national securities exchange, and national securities association shall require that each of its partners, directors, officers, and employees be fingerprinted and shall submit such fingerprints, or cause the same to be submitted, to the Attorney General of the United States for identification and appropriate processing. The Commission, by rule, may exempt from the provisions of this paragraph upon specified terms, conditions, and periods, any class of partners, directors, officers, or employees of any such member, broker, dealer, transfer agent, clearing agency, securities information processor, national securities exchange, or national securities association, if the Commission finds that such action is not inconsistent with the public interest or the protection of investors. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in providing identification and processing functions, the Attorney General shall provide the Commission and self-regulatory organizations designated by the Commission with access to all criminal history record information.

(3)(A) In order to carry out the authority under paragraph (1) above, the Commission or its designee may enter into agreement with the Attorney General to use the facilities of the National Crime Information Center ("NCIC") to receive, store, and disseminate information in regard to missing, lost, counterfeit, or stolen securities and to permit direct inquiry access to NCIC's file on such securities for the financial community.

(B) In order to carry out the authority under paragraph (1) of this subsection, the Commission or its designee and the Secretary of the Treasury shall enter into an agreement whereby the Commission or its designee will receive, store, and disseminate information in the possession, and which comes into the possession, of the Department of the Treasury in regard to missing, lost, counterfeit, or stolen securities.

(4) In regard to paragraphs (1), (2), and (3), above insofar as such paragraphs apply to any bank or member of the Federal Reserve System, the Commission may delegate its authority to:

(A) the Comptroller of the Currency as to national banks;

(B) the Federal Reserve Board in regard to any member of the Federal Reserve System which is not a national bank; and

(C) the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for any State bank which is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation but which is not a member of the Federal Reserve System.

(5) The Commission shall encourage the insurance industry to require their insured to report expeditiously instances of missing, lost, counterfeit, or stolen securities to the Commission or to such other person as the Commission may, by rule, designate to receive such information.

(g) Any broker, dealer, or other person extending credit who is subject to the rules and regulations prescribed by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System pursuant to this title shall make such reports to the Board as it may require as necessary or appropriate to enable it to perform the functions conferred upon it by this title. If any such broker, dealer, or other person shall fail to make any such report or fail to furnish full information therein, or, if in the judgment of the Board it is otherwise necessary, such broker, dealer, or other person shall permit such inspections to be made by the Board with respect to the business operations of such broker, dealer, or other person as the Board may deem necessary to enable it to obtain the required information.

(h) RISK ASSESSMENT FOR HOLDING COMPANY SYSTEMS.—

(1) OBLIGATIONS TO OBTAIN, MAINTAIN, AND REPORT INFORMATION.— Every person who is (A) a registered broker or dealer, or (B) a registered municipal securities dealer for which the Commission is the appropriate regulatory agency, shall obtain such information and make and keep such records as the Commission by rule prescribes concerning the registered person's policies, procedures, or systems for monitoring and controlling financial and operational risks to it resulting from the activities of any of its associated persons, other than a natural person. Such records shall describe, in the aggregate, each of the financial and securities activities conducted by, and the customary sources of capital and funding of, those of its associated persons whose business activities are reasonably likely to have a material impact on the financial or operational condition of such registered person, including its net capital, its liquidity, or its ability to conduct or finance its operations. The Commission, by rule, may require summary reports of such information to be filed with the Commission no more frequently than quarterly.

(2) AUTHORITY TO REQUIRE ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.— If, as a result of adverse market conditions or based on reports provided to the Commission pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection or other available information, the Commission reasonably concludes that it has concerns regarding the financial or operational condition of (A) any registered broker or dealer, or (B) any registered municipal securities dealer, government securities broker, or government securities dealer for which the Commission is the appropriate regulatory agency, the Commission may require the registered person to make reports concerning the financial and securities activities of any of such person's associated persons, other than a natural person, whose business activities are reasonably likely to have a material impact on the financial or operational condition of such registered person. The Commission, in requiring reports pursuant to this paragraph, shall specify the information required, the period for which it is required, the time and date on which the information must be furnished, and whether the information is to be furnished directly to the Commission or to a self-regulatory organization with primary responsibility for examining the registered person's financial and operational condition.

(3) SPECIAL PROVISIONS WITH RESPECT TO ASSOCIATED PERSONS SUBJECT TO FEDERAL BANKING AGENCY REGULATION.—

(A) COOPERATION IN IMPLEMENTATION.— In developing and implementing reporting requirements pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection with respect to associated persons subject to examination by or reporting requirements of a Federal banking agency, the Commission shall consult with and consider the views of each such Federal banking agency. If a Federal banking agency comments in writing on a proposed rule of the Commission under this subsection that has been published for comment, the Commission shall respond in writing to such written comment before adopting the proposed rule. The Commission shall, at the request of the Federal banking agency, publish such comment and response in the Federal Register at the time of publishing the adopted rule.

(B) USE OF BANKING AGENCY REPORTS.— A registered broker, dealer, or municipal securities dealer shall be in compliance with any recordkeeping or reporting requirement adopted pursuant to paragraph (1) of this subsection concerning an associated person that is subject to examination by or reporting requirements of a Federal banking agency if such broker, dealer, or municipal securities dealer utilizes for such recordkeeping or reporting requirement copies of reports filed by the associated person with the Federal banking agency pursuant to section 5211 of the Revised Statutes, section 9 of the Federal Reserve Act, section 7(a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, section 10(b) of the Home Owners' Loan Act, or section 8 of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956. The Commission may, however, by rule adopted pursuant to paragraph (1), require any broker, dealer, or municipal securities dealer filing such reports with the Commission to obtain, maintain, or report supplemental information if the Commission makes an explicit finding that such supplemental information is necessary to inform the Commission regarding potential risks to such broker, dealer, or municipal securities dealer. Prior to requiring any such supplemental information, the Commission shall first request the Federal banking agency to expand its reporting requirements to include such information.

(C) PROCEDURE FOR REQUIRING ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.— Prior to making a request pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subsection for information with respect to an associated person that is subject to examination by or reporting requirements of a Federal banking agency, the Commission shall—

(i) notify such agency of the information required with respect to such associated person; and

(ii) consult with such agency to determine whether the information required is available from such agency and for other purposes, unless the Commission determines that any delay resulting from such consultation would be inconsistent with ensuring the financial and operational condition of the broker, dealer, municipal securities dealer, government securities broker, or government securities dealer or the stability or integrity of the securities markets.

(D) EXCLUSION FOR EXAMINATION REPORTS.— Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to permit the Commission to require any registered broker or dealer, or any registered municipal securities dealer, government securities broker, or government securities dealer for which the Commission is the appropriate regulatory agency, to obtain, maintain, or furnish any examination report of any Federal banking agency or any supervisory recommendations or analysis contained therein.

(E) CONFIDENTIALITY OF INFORMATION PROVIDED.— No information provided to or obtained by the Commission from any Federal banking agency pursuant to a request by the Commission under subparagraph (C) of this paragraph regarding any associated person which is subject to examination by or reporting requirements of a Federal banking agency may be disclosed to any other person (other than a self-regulatory organization), without the prior written approval of the Federal banking agency. Nothing in this subsection shall authorize the Commission to withhold information from Congress, or prevent the Commission from complying with a request for information from any other Federal department or agency requesting the information for purposes within the scope of its jurisdiction, or complying with an order of a court of the United States in an action brought by the United States or the Commission.

(F) NOTICE TO BANKING AGENCIES CONCERNING FINANCIAL AND OPERATIONAL CONDITION CONCERNS.— The Commission shall notify the Federal banking agency of any concerns of the Commission regarding significant financial or operational risks resulting from the activities of any registered broker or dealer, or any registered municipal securities dealer, government securities broker, or government securities dealer for which the Commission is the appropriate regulatory agency, to any associated person thereof which is subject to examination by or reporting requirements of the Federal banking agency.

(G) DEFINITION.— For purposes of this paragraph, the term “Federal banking agency” shall have the same meaning as the term “appropriate Federal bank agency” in section 3(q) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1813(q)).

(4) EXEMPTIONS.— The Commission by rule or order may exempt any person or class of persons, under such terms and conditions and for such periods as the Commission shall provide in such rule or order, from the provisions of this subsection, and the rules thereunder. In granting such exemptions, the Commission shall consider, among other factors—

(A) whether information of the type required under this subsection is available from a supervisory agency (as defined in section 1101(6) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 (12 U.S.C. 3401(6))), a State insurance commission or similar State agency, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, or a similar foreign regulator;

(B) the primary business of any associated person;

(C) the nature and extent of domestic or foreign regulation of the associated person’s activities;

(D) the nature and extent of the registered person’s securities activities; and

(E) with respect to the registered person and its associated persons, on a consolidated basis, the amount and proportion of assets devoted to, and revenues derived from, activities in the United States securities markets.

(5) AUTHORITY TO LIMIT DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION.— Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Commission shall not be compelled to disclose any information required to be reported under this subsection, or any information supplied to the Commission by any domestic or foreign regulatory agency that relates to the financial or operational condition of any associated person of a registered broker, dealer, government securities broker, government securities dealer, or municipal securities dealer. Nothing in this subsection shall authorize the Commission to withhold information from Congress, or prevent the Commission from complying with a request for information from any other Federal department or agency requesting the information for purposes within the scope of its jurisdiction, or complying with an order of a court of the United States in an action brought by the United States or the Commission. For purposes of section 552 of title 5, United States Code, this subsection shall be considered a statute described in subsection (b)(3)(B) of such section 552. In prescribing regulations to carry out the requirements of this subsection, the Commission shall designate information described in or obtained pursuant to subparagraph (B) or (C) of paragraph (3) of this subsection as confidential information for purposes of section 24(b)(2) of this title.

(i) AUTHORITY TO LIMIT DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Commission shall not be compelled to disclose any information required to be reported under subsection (h) or (i) or any information supplied to the Commission by any domestic or foreign regulatory agency that relates to the financial or operational condition of any associated person of a broker or dealer, investment bank holding company, or any affiliate of an investment bank holding company. MINORITY VIEWS

H.R. 5311, the “Corporate Governance Reform and Transparency Act of 2016,” would create an untested, inappropriate and costly regulatory framework for proxy advisory firms—or firms that provide research and voting recommendations to shareholders—under the guise of limiting conflicts of interest and improving transparency. However, rather than improve public company corporate governance, the legislation would create numerous problems that would make it more difficult for shareholders to hold company management accountable. Indeed, H.R. 5311 would only serve to limit the impartial information available to shareholders when making proxy voting decisions, make it more difficult for institutional investors to fulfill their fiduciary duty to their clients, and create barriers to entry that would stifle competition in the proxy advisory firm industry.

Many stakeholders wrote to the Committee to say as much when H.R. 5311 was being considered. This includes investors like TIAA, and their trade association representatives, including the Investment Company Institute and the Council of Institutional Investors; union pension funds representing carpenters, automobile workers and Teamsters; as well as public pension funds from the states of California, New York, Florida, Colorado, Washington, Ohio, Vermont and Oregon. Advocates representing the interests of investors likewise opposed H.R. 5311, including the Consumer Federation of America, Americans for Financial Reform, and Public Citizen.

The correspondence and testimony received by the Committee on H.R. 5311 noted numerous problems with the legislation.

First, H.R. 5311 would require that proxy advisory firms provide an opportunity for companies to comment on the editorial decisions reflected in the firms’ research before that research could be disseminated to paying clients. This mandatory pre-publication consultation with companies would essentially open up the independent research process to lobbying from special interests. This provision would be made more unworkable by the fact that the U.S. proxy season is compressed, occurring over just a few months in the spring. Further, the Minority notes that H.R. 5311 does not provide shareholders with proposals on the proxy the same opportunity for pre-review and lobbying as company management.

Second, H.R. 5311 would make it more difficult for institutional investors to fulfill their fiduciary duty to their clients. Staff Legal Bulletin No. 20 (SLB-20) from the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has already provided needed clarity to investment advisors, outlining the due diligence and oversight that advisors must undertake in order to ensure that research providers and third-party voting agents are serving their clients’ best interests. H.R. 5311 would replace this clear guidance with an untested regulatory framework, which may be inconsistent with the Department of Labor’s recently finalized conflict of interest rule, Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) rules prohibiting pre-review of research reports, as well as best practice principles adopted by the European Securities and Markets Authority and the Canadian Securities Administrators.

Finally, H.R. 5311 would create barriers to entry that would only serve to further concentrate the proxy advisory firm industry. Investors writing to the Committee have noted that the legislation would likely reduce the number of firms in the marketplace offering independent proxy advisory services, and, as a result, the remaining firm(s) in the industry may drive up the costs of their research. Alternatively, investors expressed concern that they may be left without independent research providers at all, and may instead have to spend significant amounts to develop extensive in-house research divisions.

In summary, the Minority believes that corporate governance works best when shareholders are empowered with independent, impartial information when making voting decisions on key ballot issues—from director elections to corporate boards, to Dodd-Frank’s “say on pay” votes, to countless other measures. H.R. 5311 represents a step in the wrong direction, which would leave shareholders reliant on biased information tilted towards the interests of company management.

For these reasons, the Minority opposes H.R. 5311.
